American Stocks Ruled Firm in London.

Steel Stocks Rallied Somewhat.

Sugar Was Again Active Without Change in the Trade Position.

Railroad Stocks Heavy.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL: New York, April 19.—American stocks in London were firm today and closed on an advance.

The local account was very good and most of the buying seemed to be for New York account.

There was no change in the Bank of England rate, and the return showed no alteration in the bank's position.

The market took a rest after the news that foreign activity of the last three days on the New York exchange, and movements were small and of comparatively little significance.

The steel stocks rallied somewhat, but there seemed to be good selling, mostly from Chicago, especially in steel and wire preferred.

The oil pool in sugar was again active in the stock, without any change in the trade position.

The room was so busy talking of Mr. Gates that Mr. Haverly has been referred to comparatively obscurely.

The railroad stocks were heavy and rather inclined to sell off during the most of the day.

There were some heavy actions in Southern Pacific, and what looked like, at any rate, a shifting of the bull interest in the stock.

The Grangers showed fair strength and were well bought, although in rather limited quantity.

The market had rather the appearance of being checked by the fact that the bull pools had their hands pretty full, and the public seems not so very enthusiastic about relieving them of their burden.

Encouraged by a revival in the steel stocks and quite a little buying of the local character, the market closed firm all round.

Louisville was somewhat heavy on export, trouble between the board and the minority stockholders of Chattanooga, but, with this exception, the market was firm and well bought, especially the Grangers. Industries showed a better feeling, in sympathy with the steel stocks.

The practical certainty that the ship subsidy bill is for the moment dead, and a further four reports gave heavy buying to Pacific Mail during the day.

The report is in part explained by the fact that there were no arrivals of ships from China in February, Canadian Pacific has at last come to a definite agreement on the rate question.

Some of the more conservative of the local operators are basing a somewhat bullish opinion on the expansion which they consider inevitable under the new currency act, and it seems not unlikely that this factor has not been sufficiently allowed for.
